

VINGA
CORPORATE BOND

MONTHLY REPORT
MARCH 2024

Positive month despite Intrum!

Intrum's development was the major event of March. We were surprised that the company's bonds traded down to such low levels at a price of 55. We assess that the market has overreacted, and we will see price increases in the coming quarters. Towards the end of the month, we saw some improvement from the lowest levels. Vinga CB's other bonds continue to perform, and March ends on a positive note. We look forward to upcoming interest rate cuts from the Riksbank, ECB, and Federal Reserve.

/ COMMENTS - MARS /

During the month, we increased our holdings in NOBA Bank through the company's new subordinated bond yielding 13.3%. NOBA Bank has now become one of Vinga Fund's largest holdings. NOBA is by far the largest niche bank in the Nordics, owned by Sampo and Nordic Capital. We also added Orexo's new bond yielding 10.5%. Orexo manufactures, among other things, medication for the treatment of opioid dependence and related diseases. The negative development in Intrum caused the fund's yield to increase from 14.3% to 14.8%.
